Please select as the final option a totally new bridge.

It must be one that is independent from river traffic.

It must be one that includes a light rail connection between the Yellow Line and C-Tran at a future Vancouver Station. Hopefully in the future the citizens of Clark County will embrace light rail and see the benefits that it brings for transit options.

The bridge and future light rail stations must include the possibility for future expansion and longer trains. The current design of a two-car consist limits the ability of light rail to quickly respond to increased ridership for special events, future growth, and increases resulting from spikes in oil prices.
