I-594-001 Replacing the current elevated roadway with a tunnel is a waste of added time and money. The elevated roadway is a symbol of Seattle as much as the Space Needle, and a much more useful one. It is one of the most scenic drives along the city skyline a night that I have ever experienced. The tunnel is nothing more then an attempt by greedy land developers and politicians to open more space for there political contributors to develop. Replacing the elevated roadway with anything other then another elevated roadway destroys the cityscape, plays into special interests, and creates a major detracton, both economic and visual, to the City of Seattle and the State of Washington. I am a voter and I say keep the viaduct a elevated road way. Besides legal challenges and political action can keep the tunnel from ever starting. I will volunteer to stop any tunnel project for decades if need be. It is that important.

Thank you for your time in listening to my input and view on this issue.
